

STAND CATERING DURING THE COVID-19-PANDEMIC

In order to host trade fairs at the Munich exhibition center during the Covid-19 pandemic, stand catering must observe the following safety protocols:

- stand caterers must ensure that a minimum safe distance of 1.5 m is maintained between two persons at all times.
- suitable protective measures must be adopted to prevent droplet and/or smear infection.
- stand caterers must ensure that all exhibitor stand personnel and all other persons entering or leaving the stand are registered by name in order to ensure that Category 1 contact persons can be traced in accordance with the specifications of the Robert Koch Institute, a federal institute mandated by the Federal Ministry of Health.

We therefore ask you to contact your stand catering company to ensure they plan and manage your stand catering in compliance with the above health and safety protocols. The Technical Guidelines of Messe München GmbH continue to apply unchanged.

In particular, Messe München GmbH recommends adherence with the following protocols:

- Service personnel and your staff at food and beverage outlets should wear protective face masks.
- Food and drink counters should be equipped with sneeze guards/screens. Service personnel and your staff at food and drink counters should be separated from other stand personnel by the sneeze guards/screens.
- Every effort should be made to avoid self-service buffets, coffee machines and beverage counters.
- Milk, sugar, drink stirrers, cutlery, napkins, biscuits, chocolate, etc. should only be provided individually packaged in self-service settings.
- Food and drinks should only be served by service or buffet staff. If your employees serve food or beverages, they should be instructed and trained to observe all health and safety protocols.

Messe München GmbH reserves the right to introduce more restrictive protocols and to limit or to cancel existing protocols in compliance with statutory or official requirements. Inspections will be conducted by both health and safety authorities and Messe München GmbH.

Please note that health and safety at your stand is your responsibility.
